Southbound Lanes of 14th Street between Old Cheney Road and N-2 to Open Today

November 29, 2017 (Lincoln, Neb.) — The southbound lanes of 14th Street between Old Cheney Road and N-2 will open one month ahead of schedule on November 29, according to the Nebraska Department of Transportation.

This section of the roadway was closed August 22, 2017 for concrete and asphalt paving work. It was the second phase of the project on Warlick Blvd. from US-77 to N-2, including 14th Street. The contractor, Constructors, Inc., of Lincoln, Nebraska, completed this phase of the project 35 working days ahead of the anticipated completion date of January 2018.

This completion date is also one year ahead of the original schedule for this project. There will still be intermittent lane closures this year as weather permits to allow for seeding and clean-up work.

There will be some minor work on the project, including permanent pavement marking and seeding, to be completed in the spring of 2018, according to Department of Transportation Project Manager Ryan Hobelman of Lincoln.
